About us

The Lutheran World Federation (LWF) in Jordan is committed to enhancing the resilience of vulnerable communities by fostering sustainable development, particularly in rural areas. Our strategy focuses on equipping individuals with market-oriented skills and creating job opportunities across key sectors, including climate-smart agriculture and the rapidly growing digital economy. We also prioritize the establishment of safe spaces for education, psychosocial support, and recreational activities, ensuring an inclusive environment where children and youth can thrive. Through these efforts, LWF aims to promote long-term stability, self-reliance, and sustainable livelihoods across Jordan.

Miyar Al-Omari

“The training from the LWF project has transformed my life. It rekindled my passion for farming and equipped me with skills in goat care and dairy production. Working with my partners, we’ve built a successful venture that not only supports our families but also creates growth opportunities in our community.”

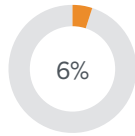

Abdulhadi, a displaced individual from Homs, Syria, relocated to Jordan in 2013, settling in Irbid after spending time in the Za’atari Camp. His involvement with the KufrSoum Pomegranate Producers Association opened doors to an LWF-funded project focused on goat care and dairy production. With a strong foundation in rural farming and a collaborative spirit, Abdulhadi played a pivotal role in transforming the initiative into a thriving success, ensuring a stable income and paving the way for future expansion with his partners.

“My journey took a positive turn when Miyar joined LWF’s Smurfs Center daycare in Za’atari Refugee Camp. The specialized attention he received greatly improved his speech, memory, and social interaction. Mayor’s joyful presence has become a testament to the quality of services the center’s facilitators provide, offering hope and encouragement for his future development.” — Miyar’s Grandmother

Miyar, a four-year-old boy with Down Syndrome, has experienced significant progress thanks to the dedicated support at the Smurfs Center, which has greatly enhanced his abilities and instilled optimism for his future.
